

Dress

Medium

textile

Description

Lavendar blouse that is part of a dress; the bodice is covered with lace and ruffles that start at some point on either side of the front opening and curve upward and over the shoulders; there is a bow on the left side of the front opening at roughly the center of the front; the bodice is fitted and slightly gathered at the bottom (around the waist) to create a tailored look; five lavender buttons go down the right side of the front opening with corresponding button holes (there are eight button holes); there is lace around the collar, which is just a simple length of fabric that goes around the neck; long sleeves with lace at the cuffs and ruffles around at the elbow; there is also a bow with lace at the elbows; the sleeves get bigger around as they proceed down to the cuffs, making large diameter cuffs; the back is plain with only lace and ruffles around the neckline; the blouse is lined with white fabric and has eight bone stays evenly spaced throughout; a white strap is sewn into the blouse at the waist and is to be tied around while worn; a flap of fabric with bone along its end and five grommets is sewn into each side of the front opening; these are meant to be laced together while worn Lavender skirt that is part of a dress; gathered at the waist; a train in the back; plain fabric; white waistband; band of cording around the hemline; pocket on one side; lined with a white gossy fabric or kind of netting Lavender bow that goes with a dress; the base is two pieces of fabric that are teardrop-shaped and have been sewn together at the top; lace goes around all edges of these pieces; on top of this (at the top) has been sewn a horizontal oval that has a wide piece of pleated fabric sewn to its bottom; the oval is pleated as well; there is lace all around the edges of this section; a double bow has been sewn over the seam that connects the oval to its wide ruffle; a slender strap of fabric is sewn at this seam on either side; the left strap has two eye closures and the right strap has four hook closures; the right strap also comes to a point at the end; all of the fabric is lined with a white gossy fabric or kind of netting Lavender belt that goes with a dress; long and plain; two hook closures on one end and two eye closures on the other end; lined with a white fabric Small lavender bow with lace around its edges; lined with a white gossy fabric or kind of netting; goes with a dress

Dimensions

Overall: 18 in. (45.7 cm)