Description

spherical, iridescent green glass beads attached with tiny metal rings; each bead has a tiny black bead above and below it; single strand of beads around back of neck then becomes two strands on either side for three and two beads respectively; these attach to a large metal piece in the form of a flower with a decorated border; a larger, spherical green bead hangs off the outer side of each piece; next are two more strands of iridescent beads, two and three respectively; these attach to a large metal piece in the form of a woman's face with the head of a rooster bursting from its top; this is framed by decorative swirls and floral designs; light and dark green stones are affixed around the border with two large ones at its base; one very large, teardrop-shaped stone hangs beneath; it is light blue; green beads hang on either side; the larger of the two is coupled with an iridescent bead
