

An open, rectangular metal case, likely for an oboe, is shown against a blue background. The case is made of a light-colored, possibly silver or chrome, metal that shows signs of wear and age. The interior is lined with a deep red velvet material. Inside the case, a black oboe with silver-colored keys and a silver-colored body is visible. The oboe is positioned horizontally, with its reed pointing towards the left. The case is open, revealing the interior compartments and the oboe. The background is a solid blue color.

Page 1 of 1